Patty transferred to Camp Parks

PLEASANTON — Patricia Hearst, the poor little rich girl from Hillsborough, now a convicted bank robber, moved temporarily to the Livermore - Amador valley yesterday when she took up residence in the relatively posh federal facility for juvenile offenders here.

Her arrival marked the second time a central figure in the celebrated Hearst story, which has run the gamut from kidnapping to holdups, fiery shootouts and the "trial of the century," has been confined here. Shortly after her capture last September, Wendy Yoshimura, Miss Hearst's roommate at the time of her apprehension, was spirited into the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center and confined there until her release on $25,000 jail.

Her quarters at Santa Rita were somewhat less comfortable than those of Miss Hearst will find at the federal center, described by the Associated Press as a place which looks more like a coeducational college campus than a prison for convicted bank robbers.

Miss Hearst was secreted at midday in the Federal Youth Center here where the regular guards are unarmed.

U.S. Marahalls had taken her by wheelchair out of the back door of Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City.

The 22 - year - old newspaper heiress was taken to the hospital two weeks ago after her lung collapsed while she was held in the San Mateo County jail where she had been kept by federal officials since her capture Sept. 18, 1975.

A prison official said Miss Hearst would remain at Pleasanton less than a week, then would be transferred to a federal prison facility at San Diego for 90 days of psychological testing before final sentencing for her bank robbery conviction.

In San Francisco, U.S. Marshal Frank X. Klein explained the transfer saying, "We were paying the bill and we had half our staff out there (at Redwood City). I was anxious to take her out of there for that reason and for the expense.

"But we would not take her out unless she was released by the hospital and doctors."

Klein said Miss Hearst's attorney, Al Johnson, was upset that she was removed from the hospital. But Johnson declined immediate comment.

Last week, doctors had said Miss Hearst could not travel by air for 30 days, but they made no restrictions on other transportation means.

"I assume she will be staying in the hospital area at Pleasanton," Dr. Owen Kennedy, assistant regional director of federal prisons, said in a telephone interview. "There probably will be special security for her. The guards are not armed."

Warden Walter Lumpkin reported that Miss Hearst walked into the facility under her own power and was booked as a "holdover."

"The other inmates were aware of her arrival," he said but declined to elaborate.

Miss Hearst was convicted March 20 of robbing a San Francisco bank in 1974 with members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, the group that had kidnaped her on Feb. 4, 1974.

The $5.3 million minimum security facility in Pleasanton opened on July 1, 1974

Though ringed by a 12-foot fence with an electronic eye, the prison contains neither cell bars nor armed guards. Each of the 200 residents — about 80 of them women — has his or her own air-conditioned room with commode, a window, desk and bed and can decorate them as they please within limits. The correctional officers carry only walkie talkies.

The 10-acre compound has lawns and patio furniture where inmates, wearing street clothes, relax or listen to juke box music from a nearby recreational hall.

Four sexually segregated dormitories with modern swept - wing rooflines can house up to about 60 inmates each. Even the "segregation cells" for discipline problems look just like the other rooms.

The dormitories each feature billiards, shuffleboard and television, plus a counseling room.

The inmates, generally from 18 to 26 years of age, put in an eight-hour day five days a week on prison jobs and vocational or educational courses, leaving them free on weekend for recreation such as dances, picnic and sports.

When the prison opened, Lumpkin said, "We're trying to create an environment as close to the outside world as possible, so that an individual can function properly in society when he leaves."

Local financing possible

Pleasanton, VCSD may nix fed funds

Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District are examining the possibility of turning down the long - sought federal grant for expansion of the VCSD sewer plant and taking another tack for sewer improvement.

VCSD Director Ron Hyde told The Times yesterday that the joint VCSD - Pleasanton sewer committee raised the possibility recently that a totally local financial effort might pay off with more sewer capacity than a subsidized plant.

The possibility hinges on what kind of sewer discharge requirements would be put on the plant. Currently three stages of treatment are required because the treated effluent drains into Alameda Creek, which goes to the underground water basin in Fremont.

However, the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board is expected to lower the standards to two - stage or "secondary" treatment once the plant empties into the proposed LAVWMA super sewer.

The composition of the VCSD plant is such that VCSD can get much more capacity for much less money if only the secondary treatment is required, said Hyde. It could eliminate the need to get a federal and state subsidy, he said.

Without the state and federal subsidies, VCSD would not have to limit the expansion to 6.7 milwion gallons per day, the figure usually used by the Environmental Protection Agency in discussing a limit on the expansion.

EPA wants to limit the expansion to 6.7 million mgd because it feels any higher number would bring construction that would make the valley's air pollution problems worse.

The sewer commmittee thinks that 7.5 mgd might be attainable with only relatively slight modifications to the plant, improvements which local taxpayers could afford, said Hyde.

The VCSD director emphasized that this consideration is in the talking stage only and needs further exploration, including coordination with technical information about the plant.

Engineers have indicated that the VCSD plant expansion is cost effective up to only a certain point and that will be one of the factors considered in the decision, said Hyde.

Pleasanton officials have a keen interest in reserving as much as two mgd for industry and commerce. Some of it could come in the approaching expansion, if Pleasanton residents want to approve bond money to reserve that capacity, according to one Pleasanton official.

However willing Pleasanton may be to add to the expansion by perhaps as much as .5 mgd or one mgd, the final say will be up to the VCSD board of directors.

The Times asked Hyde's opinion of how Pleasanton might fare with such a plan.

"It's something that could be negotiated when it's there," said Hyde. "I don't ever believe in saying no."

But there was a note of pessimism, too. Hyde noted that the VCSD board originally turned down Pleasanton's request for sewer plant expansion and assented only after a court action.

How could the VCSD board turn down a Pleaasanton - financed expansion for its own commercial and industrial future? "There seems to be a pervading theory in this valley, with which I disagree, that a services district can regulate land use planning," said Hyde "We could, in fact, be regulating Pleasanton. They couldn't go anywhere and we couldn't go anywhere."

The young and the not so young

There were speeches and there were prayers, there was laughter and much serious praise at a Sunday afternoon dedication ceremony in Pleasanton. The official opening of "Pleasanton Greens" marked a new triumph in low - cost housing, and it marked a special day for the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church, which had lent sponsorship and leadership to that venture. This photo at the Vineyard Avenue center captured two generations of those who came to admire, and to share in the festivity.

Corps study on again

Reversing an earlier decision, the Army Corps of Engineers will retain the wastewater mangement portion of its Upper Alameda Creek Urban Study.

Fed up with efforts to coordinate their study with the Association of Bay Area Government's 208 wastewater management plan, the Corps had decided last week to scuttle their own investigation rather than hold up the entire project until the two studies could be coordinated.

"We were getting fed up with being held up for a good year in order to get ABAG's and other agencies' approval," said Ben Wells, Corps study manager.

Col. H.A. Flertzheim, District Engineer, had decided the Corps could not afford to wait for ABAG, Wells said. The decision was made to drop the wastewater component of the Corps' study.

But Zone 7, the sponsoring agency of the Urban Study, was unhappy with that decision. At its April meeting, the zone went on record favoring inclusion of the wastewater portion of the study, regardless of coordination difficulties.

"We should proceed to try to keep that element within the study," Zone 7 Director Robert Pearson urged. "Otherwise it's just a flood control study."

The zone is particularly concerned with urban run - off, known as non - point source pollution, sewage that cannot be traced directly to any one source.

Wells said the Corps has decided to reintstate the wastewater portion of the study, but just how their effort will be meshed with the ABAG study has not been determined.

"We hope to have a definite decision on how to go ahead by the time ABAG submits its work plan on April 30," Wells said.

Council okays Gomez' request to add a room

PLEASANTON — Hank Gomez won the right to add a room to his home at 1815 Brooktree Way over the protest of councilman Frank Brandes last night.

The City Council voted 4-1 to grant a variance to Gomez to allow the proposed room to encroach into the required 20-foot backyard setback.

Gomez had won a similar variance earlier from the planning commission's board of adjustments, but Brandes appealed the decision to the City Council.

Brandes said he sympathized with Gomez' desire to add a room for his father who is in a wheelchair.

The planning staff had recommended against the variance on grounds it did not meet all the conditions for a variance and Brandes felt this position should be upheld.

Granting a variance for personal reasons would open the door to more of them and water down the ordinance, Brandes reasoned.

Councilman Ken Mercer outlined the options Gomez faced, none of them convenient to the uses desired.

Brandes said an 'L-shaped' room would avoid encroachment into the rear yard though it would encroach into the side yard to a small degree. Mercer objected that the side yard encroachment could present fire protection problems.

Speaking in his own behalf, Gomez said a poll of his neighbors showed approval for the plan he designed. He felt the design was the best for his father's needs.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire said Gomez' 'C-shaped' house, if reversed on the lot, would not need the variance. Gomez' design is the only logical way to do it, she said.

Mayor Robert Philcox said the City Council is in "the people business," not just the business of legal documents. Each variance must be judged on its own merits, said Philcox in support of Gomez.

On another item, the council authorized painting stripes to designate a crosswalk on Main Street at Ray Street. Councilmembers agreed unanimously to do it at the request of a realtor who works near the intersection.

LeClaire said that statistics aside, the realtors request seemed like a reasonable one, and she moved for painting the stripes.

Sheriff has 10 suspects in Santa Rita murder

PLEASANTON — The number of suspects in the murder of an inmate bludgeoned to death Wednesday has been narrowed to less than ten, the chief of the Sheriff's criminal division said yesterday.

Chief Jack Baugh, personally heading an investigation into the murder of the convicted inmate, said he hoped criminal charges would be filed before the end of this week in the case.

Michael Eugene McDaniel, 27, convicted of armed robbery, was found murdered on the floor of a barrack's shower area Wednesday afternoon. McDaniel had multiple stab wounds in the chest and neck, and a massive head wound which proved to be fatal.

Baugh said two weapons recovered from inmates match wounds on McDaniel's body. He described the weapons as a standard kitchen butterknife without serrations, and a prison - made wire - bladed knife. An eight - pound mop wringer, thought to be the weapon that caused the fatal blow, was found next to the body.

Although not releasing any specific information about the suspects, Baugh said they represented no particular ethnic make - up, thus ruling out a racial motive.

Face lifting set at jail

Alameda County Bureau

PLEASANTON — The county's sprawling Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, roundly criticized in the past by Grand Juries, will get a $35,000 face lifting to improve facilities at its infirmary.

The project, carried for two years in the board of supervisors' capital projects budget as a "contingency" expenditure, includes remodeling of an existing building with electrical, plumbing and structural improvements.

The project will "relocate the existing medical dormitory from an adjacent area in the same building," according to Director of Public Works Herb Crowle.

Two years ago the county completed similar work on the jail's infirmary.

The board of supervisors this week approved the project's plans and specifications and agreed to receive bids on the work.

It should take two months to remodel the 19 bed facility.

Santa Rita currently houses 1,200 to 1,400 inmates.

Leukemia is still fearsome and fatal illness

Gene Upshaw, honorary chairman of the Alameda County Cancer Crusade, is flanked by local chairmen (clockwise from top right) Karen Pentony, Karen Phillips, Margaret Bueff, Sylvia Hathaway and Virginia Woy.

By REINA WHITNEY

With the chilling statement to the more than 200 women present for the local Cancer Crusade kickoff luncheon that "one of your children is going to have leukemia," Doctor Bruce Gach, Livermore internist, tried to bring home the message that one out of 150 children contract the deadly blood cancer disease yearly.

He was introduced by Honorary Cancer Crusade chairman for Alameda County, Gene Upshaw, soft-spoken giant from the Oakland Raider football beam. Doctor Gach spoke after the audience had viewed a film, "Michael and Me" about a young man who had contacted the disease as a young teen-ager and managed to live a full life, even to getting married, although he must always face the realization that there is no cure.

Dr. Gach explained the insidious nature of the disease to the crusade workers who have dedicated themselves to helping raise money for research in the door-to-door campaign that begins this week.

Leukemia, explained Dr. Gach, is a malignant disease due to the uncontrolled growth of white blood cells. It is almost always fatal, although there have been some miraculous cures. The cause is still unknown but it does seen to be genetically related.

The hereditary conditions seem to develop among people who cannot fight off infection. The mortality rate is also related to the socio - economic factor of the people involved. Children under two and those over 10 seem to have the highest mortality risk.

It is hard to treat because of the way it spreads throughout the entire body through the bloodstream, making X-Ray treatment impossible. It is also hard to diagnose because the symptoms are so similar to other childhood complaints. The child can be suffering from fatigue, no appetite, presistant coughs, lemon-yellow pallor, fever, skin that bruises easily and sometimes a lump will appear.

Because of research and better supportive care, today's rate of remission is up to 90 per cent. It seems that the longer the patient can survive with care, the better chance he has for survival. A new level of nine years has been reached of remission and control.

Money is needed, not only for research, but for the treatment of the disease. Dr. Gach said a primary diagnosis can cost as much as $3,764 for a first admission, because the patient must stay in the hospital for as long as a month and be treated with multiple drugs. It is not unusual for the cost of care to go up to $20,000 dollars after three admissions and it can cost as much as $2,000 relapses for care. It is not unrealistic to say that a person's family can spend over $100,000 in a lifetime of care.

He urged those present to keep the research going. Gene Upshaw added that he many times has felt like Paul Revere's horse, carrying the ball. "Now," he said "it's your turn to be the horse. The guy in the movie (Michael) never quit. He believed he could win. That's what we have to believe."

Also present at the luncheon were Tom Rachenthaler, executive director of Alameda County Unit, Geneva Humphrey, vice president of the Alameda County Unit, Johanna McKay, South County 1976 residential crusade chairwoman, Barry Kaminsky, 1975 valley crusade chairman and Virginia Woy, 1976 valley crusade chairwoman.

Cancer patient praises ACS volunteer drivers

Mrs. Irene Compton, a senior citizen of San Ramon who was featured in The Times during Christmas week 1975, has some words of praise for American Cancer Society volunteers.

"I didn't know what to do when I learned I had to travel from my home to Peralta Hospital in Oakland for X-ray treatments for cancer of the cervix," Mrs. Compton said.

"But my doctor phoned the service director of the American Cancer Society, and volunteer drivers appeared at my door in San Ramon to help me out."

Mrs. Compton was driven for ten round-trips by society volunteers, and now has a month's respite before she returns for additional treatments which can arrest the disease.

"I want to thank these volunteers — they've been a great help to me and I enjoyed meeting them all," Mrs. Compton adds.

Contra Costa Service Director Barbara Reid said more drivers from the San Ramon area are urgently needed. She invites interested persons to contact her at 934-7640.

Cancer patients who reside in Alameda County may call the Alameda County Unit the American Cancer Society for help at 832-7012.

BART tours to continue

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Those twice - a - month, behind the scenes, public BART tours have been such a success that the district will offer them every Friday, it has been announced.

"The tours have been extremely successful since we began them back in February," said Passenger Service Officer Carole Hirose, "and we just couldn't accommodate all the requests on a twice-a-month basis."

The tours, dubbed "Horizons on Display," generally begin at 10:30 a.m. each Friday at BART's Lake Merritt administration building, 800 Madison St., Oakland.

Reservations should be made in advance, the staff warns, and starting times confirmed.

Visitors will tour the "space-age Control Center," see a short film in the board of directors room and "be briefed on the new transit system's dramatic beginnings and evolution," according to staff.

The tours have appealed to out - of - town visitors as well as Bay Area residents, said Hirose, and BART's Control Center "has always been of speical interest."

Prearranged tour groups will meet with passenger service representatives by the fountain located on the concourse level of the station.

For further information — or tour reservations — call BART at 465 - 4100.

'Rural view' set in 3 areas

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ—A specific application of the draft San Ramon Valley General Plan's goal to preserve a "rural view" of life is reflected in the three special concern areas.

The three are designated because of their key environmental and scenic qualities.

They are the Sycamore Valley, Lower Dougherty Hills and Sycamore Road-San Ramon Valley Boulevard area.

"The Sycamore Valley area has long been planned for low density single family use on the adopted County General Plan. It has two dominant visual features warranting protection: Sycamore Creek and the hills flanking the valley," the draft plan states.

"The goal for development in this area is to achieve an appearance of suburban-rural charm and to ensure the valley will appear to be a unified region," it continues.

Recommendations include clustering development on valley floors and decreasing density as development ascends the slopes.

Lower Dougherty Hills was a part of the original San Ramon Village development proposal, the draft plan states. But community attitudes have changed and now the sentiment is to keep the hills in their natural state.

"Also it appears that building for a large population in the outlying valley is not appropriate," the plan states.

Artists may submit one painting or sculpture in addition to other fine arts entries. The work must be original and depict persons, events and life in our times honoring our country.

Photographers, too, are offered a special Bicentennial division in a salute to our nation's 200th birthday. The Fair will offer a $100 cash award for the best photograph, whether it be black and white, color or colored slide.

The Home Arts department has two divisions, one for quilts, bed spreads and afghans, clothing, stitchery and needlepoint and misscellaneous arts and crafts and another division for Bicentennial baked foods including breads, biscuits, rolls, cakes, cookies. Cash prizes will be awarded.

In the Pageant of Fur and Feathers, Fair visitors will view pens of live red, white and blue rabbits, while the Department of Floriculture will acknowledge the Bicentennial year with many patriotic floral displays depicting "California Heritage."

The Agriculture Department is featuring an "Agricultural Parade of Progress" as its theme, with the displays arranged along an old-fashioned "street," following agricultural progress from its very beginnings into the future.

Students entering the Industrial Education Department exhibits are being encouraged to build furniture, tools, and other implements along an antique or Early American theme. Converting drafting, electricity metals, woods, and miscellaneous industrial crafts, all Industrial Education exhibit division entries must be made in school under teacher supervision, with winning entries receiving ribbons, plaques, trophies or cash awards.

Fairgoers will see Bicentennial colors used throughout the Fairgrounds facilities and decorations, with antique equipment placed in different areas of the grounds as well as in the Antique Heritage display.

Special events are planned for the Bicentennial Fourth of July, including a display of fireworks and a special commemorative show.

English woman pens area Bicentennial play

PLEASANTON— An idea originated by Bette Hartley and Laura Maxwell and brought to life by a native of Northhampton, England, will be premiered at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre Thursday evening by a cast including close to 500 Harvest Park School students.

"E Pluribus Unum" was written by Pat Thorn, an English woman trying her hand at play writing for the first time. From the exuberance and skill demonstrated by the fledgling actors and actresses, musicians and dancers, the ladies may have a hit on their hands.

The production will depict the entire 200 - year history of the United States in four major sequences. Costumes and props are both colorful and in keeping with the times depicted.

Mrs. Thorn is no stranger to writing, having pursued the discipline since childhood— "when other children were holding dolls I had a pencil in my hand and wrote."

The first script was written in about a week last October. A partial rewrite followed in January.

One of the most spectacular props in the production is the large eagle that was constructed by mothers of Harvest Park School students.

The eagle dwarfs most of the junior high students cavorting about the stage during the production.

In very precise English, Mrs. Thorn explains that the play really didn't take to long to write and adds, jokingly, "I'm not so sure this is the way we English wanted it all to turn out, though."

She credits Laura Maxwell with the title.

Mrs. Thorn met her husband, Jerry, while he was stationed in England. They returned to the United States and eventually settled in Overland Park, Kansas. They moved to Pleasanton three years ago.

In addition to Pat and Jerry, there's Matthew, a seventh grader at Harvest Park, and Allison, a fourth grader.

Lydiksen School playground

Moms spur play area project

Julie Lucas and Sherri Oetman, mothers of Lydiksen School children in Pleasanton, have spearheaded a drive to construct an environmental playground on the school grounds.

Taking the cue from a Lydiksen staff member, the two young women started collecting materials for use on the grounds. It took them almost four months but once they had the large telephone cable spools, telephone poles, tractor tires and drainage pipes, the job was largely complete.

Installation of the materials took a matter of hours and the playground, today, is "99 per cent complete."

Vice principal Vince Anaclerio notes the area could use about 100 to 150 yards of coarse sand.

The area is a dream come true for the younger set.

Toddlers, with supervision, can have a field day climbing through the large drainage pipes or scrambling about the tires.

Older ones, in the 5 to 10 year old category, will enjoy the challenge of climbing over poles, and up on the huge tires.

The kindergarten children at Lydiksen, to show their appreciation, presented Mrs. Lucas and Mrs. Oetman with scrolls they made in class Monday.

Local construction companies, the Pleasanton Parks and Recreation Department, Murray School District maintenance department and the Parent - Faculty Club, along with parents in the school community, all combined to make the environamental playground a reality.

Principal at the school is Wally Moreskine.

Dublin students, parents learn nutrition balance

DUBLIN— Dublin Elementary School is working on parent education for Early Childhood Education by presenting programs keyed to nutrition and health.

A recent program, entitle "Balancing Your Needs," focused on "Food for Life" (a film), fashions, and physical fitness.

The film showed how, even with the abundance of food available, many teenagers and younger childrer suffer from malnutrition because of the food choices they make.

The second phase of the program focused on balancing one's wardrobe. Narration was tied to the four basic food groups with girls wearing colors to exemplify each of the four groups.

Girls participating had all made their own outfits while the younger children wore outfits made by their moms.

Materials used in the outfits were given to the students by the Home Yardage Store of Dublin and fashion designer Elaine Ganter helped the girls with modeling.

The third portion of the program centered on physical fitness. Students from Wells Intermediate took part, demonstrating the importance of balance to a gymnast. Dorothy Bushakra is the Wells instructor for gymnastics.

Clair Rosowicz, health consultant for Dublin Elementary, notes that good health is the product of constant attention both at school and in the home.

"I really feel parent education is terribly important! We can teach kids good nutritional habits at school but if those habits are not reinforced at home you might as well forget these programs.

"I also feel," adds Ms. Rosowicz, "that involving students and parents in programs is absolutely essential if one is trying to sell an idea as important as nutrition. This is why I strive to make it fun and exciting for the community."

Does curriculum prepare student?

Value of school system questioned

Is the high school diploma just a piece of paper that reflects a culmination of "12 years of unreality?"

Validity of the school system and its capacity for preparing the student came under question Thursday as Dr. Bernard Palmer, a professor at Cal State San Francisco and self - styled "educational anthropologist," spoke with the sociology class students of Robert Holland at Amador Valley High School.

Palmer's specialty is the high school level. He was making his second visit to Amador in recent weeks, his last trip being a more formal one as part of an accreditation team.

The Amador administration, staff and students are expected to learn the results of that accreditation review in about six weeks.

But Palmer's visit Thursday was to brainstorm the validity of courses and methods at the high school level.

In an effort to get students to speak out, Palmer initially challenged them by asking, "Who do you blame for the system not fulfilling your expectations?"

The responses generally ran something like, "There aren't enough classes that teach you about life itself."

Palmer paraphrased the comments of others when he said, "You feel like you've gone to school for 12 years so you can go to school (college) some more."

Asking what students planned to do after graduation in a few weeks, Palmer got responses ranging from the field of engineering to college and part - time jobs.

"Can you learn about what you want to be on the job," Palmer challenged the student responding "engineering."

"Is it necessary to go to college for what you want to do," he continued. Who determines why one person must apprentice and the other job seeker must first ggoo on to college?, Palmer questioned.

"Is it conceivable that certain of those 12 years (kindergarten through 12th grade) should be changed— as regards curriculum content?"

Several students questioned why it was so necessary to take certain social science courses

Palmer interjected that he had spoken with an Amador district trustee recently who supposedly opined that as one gets holder he develops interests in the field of social sciences— becomes more understanding of subjects tied to life patterns.

Students generally were concerned about making course offerings more meaningful so that they would be better prepared for the total life spectrum beyond the diploma ceremonies.

Responding to the other common plaint of prerequisites in order to hold a certain job or perform a particular task, Palmer commented, "Colleges serve as sort of a credentialing function, the same as high school serves as a credentialing function."

Students in a second section of Holland's sociology classes were somewhat more tolerant of the education system, most commenting they felt prepared after eight years of grade school and four years of high school. One boy felt that school had a lot to do with maturing him.

The discussion was preceeded in each class with a film narrated by Charles Kuralt showing high school students in Websters Grove, Ill., in the mid-60s. Almost all speaking indicated contentment for their station in and education as the key to a full and rewarding career.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good day to talk to persons of influence who could help you careerwise. Lay all your cards on the table.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others will be of assistance to you today because they sincerely want to please you. Don't be pushy. A few friendly hints will do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today may be profitable in several ways. You could gain monetarily and also learn something of value for future use.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons you deal with today on a one-to-one basis are likely to treat you in a surprisingly generous fashion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your motives will be genuine in helping others today, yet in the final analysis you'll derive the greater benefits from your deeds.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to conduct important business discussions in a social atmosphere today. Favorable results can be obtained over a relaxed meal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Break your routine up a little today. Plan something fun this evening with the family that you usually reserve for the weekend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're better at finalizing things today than you were yesterday. If you have any loose threads hanging, tie them now.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think big today. Even if you fall short of your mark you'll still be further ahead than if you'd restricted your outlook.

Your Birthday

April 27, 1976

This coming year you may be luckier than you have been in some time in advancing situations than mean much to you. Strike while the iron is hot.

Victor Mollo does not show the East-West hands when he is discussing declarer play. If you can do so, don't look at them until you have planned your play.

West starts out by leading out the ace, king and queen of clubs. The unthinking player ruffs and starts after trumps. Now take a look at the East-West cards and see what happens to the unthinking declarer. West has five trumps and the unthinking declarer will have the opportunity to complain about bad luck.

How about the thinking declarer. He will say to himself that trumps have been known to break 5-0 and that when he can take out insurance against such a break he should do so. Particularly since he really doesn't have to pay a premium for that insurance.

He has to lose a diamond some time. Why not right away. So he throws a diamond on the third club and can't be beaten at his four-spade contract.

Ask the Jacobys

We receive so many questions about counting honors that we are going to repeat the answer today.

If a player in a rubber bridge game holds four of the five trump honors his side receives an honor bonus of 100 points. If he holds all five trump honors or all four aces in notrump his side receives a 150-point bonus.

The honor bonus is awarded irrespective of whether the holder is declarer dummy or a defender.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

New Zealanders take Wildcats in exhibit

The boys from down under came out on top Saturday night in Danville as the New Zealand Junior National Wrestling team won eight of 13 matches from the Wildcat Wrestling Club in freestyle competition at Monte Vista High School.

The New Zealand team, here as part of a cultural exchange program arranged by the Pacific Coast AAU, would have won the dual meet, 48-18, had it been scored under contemporary high school rules. No official score was kept, however.

Wildcat coach Randy Knudson, who led a team of Northern California stars to New Zealand last summer said of the visitors, "They are a well coached team and are improving nightly (the matches at MV were the second stop of a whirlwind tour of Northern California)".

However, he added, the impressive New Zealand win was a bit deceptive.

"Conditioning hurt a lot of our wrestlers (a group of EBAL and Contra Costa county stars)," Knudson said. "Each of our winners had practiced hard for weeks but some of the kids had worked out for only a week or so."

He added that the Wildcat team, including many underclassmen, was not representative of the best in local talent.

"We were more selective in choosing the team we took to New Zealand last summer," he said. "These were just local kids — there was a big difference in quality."

Only three EBAL wrestlers came out winners in Saturday's action.

San Ramon junior Steve Ramos, wrestling in the 57 kilo (126 pound) division, took a tooth and nail battle with Grant Shaw, 9-8, after some furious last minute action.

Shaw tied the score at eight with less than 30 seconds to go, but Ramos came up with a one-point takedown with 21 seconds remaining to record the decision.

Kurt Billingslev of Monte Vista, who will go to West Germany this summer as part of the same program, came up with a reversal and two counts of exposure in the last 40 seconds to break a tie and defeat Matthew Blackburn, 0-5, in the 74 kilo (163 pound) class.

Kevin Dugan of Dublin won his 82 kilo (181 pound) match over Peter Sargent with a pin of Peter Sargent just 2:22 seconds into their bout. Dugan led, 8-0, before ending the match via the fall.

Granada's Ron Freeman ran into a bit of ill fortune against Murray Avery in the heavyweight battle.

Freeman hurt his right elbow nine seconds into the match and though he managed to hang on for a 5-5 tie against Avery, who hunts wild boar while armed only with a knife, before forfeiting midway through the second quarter.

Raymond Katting, who Knudson called New Zealand's best junior wrestler, had an easy time of it in the 62 kilo (137 pound) division, beating a hesitant John Chandler, of Pacifica, 18-2.

Katting wrestlers for national coach Lynn Palmer at Roto Rua school, the strongest team in New Zealand.

Gate receipts from the series are being used to defray the expenses of Billingsley, Mike Walters and Lee Noble.

BU wins Redwood u-12

Ballistic United erased the pain of a bitter defeat in State Cup soccer by capturing the under-12 title last weekend in the Redwood City Tournament.

United stopped CYSA champion Dublin Paddys, 2-1, in a tense penalty kick-off for the tournament crown. Ballistic viewed the triumph as at least partial vindication for semifinal elimination in the recent State Cup playoffs.

United went quite awhile before earning the victory however. The two teams played to a scoreless tie after regulation and one overtime period.

It went to a penalty kick tie - breaker where Karl Kesterke and Frank Duarte scored for Ballistic. Goal keeper Scott Wilcox came up with three brilliant saves to cinch the triumph.

The rest of the tournament wasn't quite that difficult for United.

The team opened with a 12-0 victory over the Phoenix Jets as Mike Deleray scored four goals, and Mike Nieto, three. Duarte added a pair. Jamie Herwatt, Kesterke, David Woodward and Andy Eelsing had goals as well.

In game two Ballistic clobbered the Belmont Red Devils, 9-0. Belmont had been in the Association State Cup finals.

Herwatt scored three goals to lead United's rout in that game. Deleray had three goals as well. Nieto scored twice and Scott Strommer had one goal.

Sunday morning Ballistic defeated the Livermore Patriots, 3-1. Herwatt, Nieto and Deleray scored goals. Eelsing had the only assist.

The four victories boosted United's season record to 79-7-8. The team is 67-3-4 against under-12 opposition. It will take a month off before opening practice for the Robbie Tournament in Toronto July 4.

Detroit ties it , 106-102

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's Howard Porter grabbed a rebound on a missed Phil Smith shot with seven seconds left, was fouled and scored two free throws to ice the Pistons' 106-102 National Basketball Association playoff victory Monday night over the Golden State Warriors.

The defending NBA champion Warriors had overcome a 16-point Pistons advantage going into the final period and battled back to nearly pull it out.

But Detroit got clutch buckets from Bob Lanier and Curtis Rowe in the final 50 seconds after missed Golden State shots and then Porter's free throws climaxed the triumph when the missed shot by Smith could have knotted the score at 104.

The victory evened the best-of-seven series at two victories apiece. The teams now head for Oakland, where they'll play Wednesday night before heading back to Detroit for a Friday night game. If a seventh game is needed, it will be played Sunday in Oakland.

Bob Lanier was the big gun for Detroit with 30 points. He scored 11 in the final quarter, but got hardly any help from his teammates. The Warriors, meanwhile, had nearly everybody hitting to destroy the 85-69 three-quarter deficit and pull ahead 98-96 with 2:44 left.

It was nip and tuck the rest of the way.

Smith, who has scored at a 61 per cent clip for the season against Detroit, wound up with 31 points. Rick Barry chipped in 14, including three key buckets in the fourth-quarter comeback which also featured 17 points from the Warriors' bench.

George Trapp chipped in 17 points for the Pistons and Porter wound up with 16, including 12 in the final period.

Sentinels to host state title match

The Livermore Sentinels have earned the right to play for a state title in the National Junior Soccer Challenge Cup.

Coach Mike Thompson's under-19 team clobbered Bullard Cosmos of Fresno in a Northern California final Sunday, 10-1 in Redwood City. The Sentinels now advance to the California championship Saturday, May 8, facing the top side from the southern half of the state.

That match will be played in Livermore, possibly at Emma C. Smith School.

The Sentinels are seeking a berth in the Challenge Cup finals, to be held early in June at Long Island, N.Y. The Livermore Neutrons reached the finals last year, finishing third.

Livermore must win the state finals, then win a Pacific Northwest championship two weeks hence against the best team from the Washington - Oregon area. Winner of that matchup goes to New York.

The Sentinels hold realistic ideas about reaching the finals after destroying Bullard last weekend.

"It was the best game we've played since before Christmas," enthused Thompson yesterday. The kids had been working up to it, they needed a game like this, and then finally Sunday everything exploded. The other team had an off day just as we got hot."

In defense of the Fresno team, it was forced to play Saturday for a berth in the Northern California championship against Club America of San Francisco. That contest went into overtime.

Cosmos was simply no match Sunday for a well prepared Sentinel side.

Livermore jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first 10 minutes of play on goals by Dan Payne, Dave D'Ambra and Shannon Estil.

After a 10-minute lull, the Sentinels exploded for four more scores before halftime. Mike McKown, Payne, Jim Lennon and Ken Watts scored.

Lennon's blast was indicative of how completely Livermore dominated. The Sentinel fullback launched a 35-yard crossing pass with his instep that failed to reach an intended teammate, instead, sailing into the net.

In the second half Estil scored again and Tim Wade wrapped things up with a pair of goals.

Halfback play was critical in the victory, Thompson said, especially since his midfielders had been slumping in recent matches.

Payne, Kevin Burke, Billy Hunt and Manzar Iqbal were all outstanding.

Cleaners win, 16-9

Cleaner's Hanger Co. put Gene's Interiors out on the line to dry, 16-9, in Pleasanton National senior league baseball.

The Phillies pounded nine hits, including Bill Edwards' home run. Trino Victoria drove in four runs and Wes Peters had two base hits. For the Padres, John Dill went 3-for-4, while Scott Behiel and Dave Terry each had two hits. Scott Cherry, Randy Wilson were the defensive heroes.

In the major leagues, Televue edged Covey's Mobil, 3-2. Andy Moran was the winning pitcher on a six-hitter. Loser Dave Ferguson struck out 12. For the winners, Bobby Edwards and Barry Mori doubled. Mori and Kerry Mueller drove in runs. George Decambra of the Braves had three hits. Mark Claypool drove in two runs.

Franklin Savings defeated Valley Realty, 13-5 with a 17 hit attack. Tom Northam and Mark Kuntz drove in three runs apiece. Robert Nelson doubled twice. Valley's Mike Madden doubled.

In Triple A baseball, the Padres defeated the Giants, 9-3. Darin Bush and Jack Murphy each drove in two runs. Marty Farris had three hits and Kevin Hegedick doubled.

Two Double A Phillies defeated the Reds, 13-1. M. Kistler struck out eight in picking up the victory. For the Reds, Marty Brian doubled and Eric Hudson singled.

The Cubs beat the Braves, 21-0. Dave Dwyer and Pat Scott each drove in four runs. Scott Jensen had two RBI's. Tim Dvorcek, Dave Combs, Mike Stoker, Joe Truesdell, Darren Breen, Keith Ellison and Tim Rigsbee all played well in the field.

Robert Hasty pitched the Pirates to an 18-0 win over the Dodgers, striking out 15 and throwing a no-hitter. Matt Dill drove in six runs, and Hasty, four.

The Dodgers blanked the Pirates, 7-0. Kent Kortan tripled home three runs. Danny Hemenway, Scott Marjala and Stewart Reynolds tracked down fly balls.

The Padres rolled over the Giants, 17-8. Gary Muljat drove in five runs Dave Risso and Lynn Shipman each had two RBI's.

Dixon Shell downed the Phillies, 15-9 as Mel Grisel had three hits, and Bert Pereira, two. The Phillies' Steve McCarry drove in three runs and Kevin Musket, one.

The Dodgers defeated Tri-Valley Radiator, 16-2. Brandon Baxter, Chris Cromwell and Mike Hansen all drove in two runs for the winners.
